Acknowledgements

Libby Miller (Maxey Museum Director), Dana Bronson (Associate Archivist), Kynde Kiefel (Sheehan Gallery), Audrey Mace ('22), Camille Marshall ('21), Melina Waldman ('23), Anika Vucicevic ('23), and myself co-organized Along the ~~Columbia River~~ N'ci-Wana: Maya Lin and the Confluence Project, with essential production support from Tara Graves (Sheehan Gallery). Special mention goes to current students and alumni with whom I have received grants from Whitman College for summer research collaborations: Audrey Mace, Laura Rivale ('19), and Emma Phillips ('17). Melissa Salrin, former Archivist, expressed interest in acquiring this collection of materials back in 2017 before her departure. Ben Murphy, Archivist and Head of Digital Services, brought it home for a landing. My enormous gratitude to them both, and to Dalia Corkrum, Director of Penrose Library, and Joel Gaytan, Archives Assistant, for finding the space, and helping students access the wealth of materials available at Whitman before and during the global COVID-19 pandemic. Students in the Fall, 2019 Art/Environment class are Clara Collins, Peter Eberle, Tressa Fallon, Hope Giddings, Colin Horn, Jaron Kirkley, Leah Koyle, Audrey Mace, Camille Marshall, Quang Nguyen, Emma Patterson, Sara Patz, Liv Staryk, Erin Tyler, Andruw Urdiales, and Lukas Zmuidzinas. Students in the Fall, 2020 seminar are Ori Alon, Emma Beyer, Matt Biggi, Pei-Pei Cai, Kei Castillo, Nell Falvey, Natalie Flaherty, Rachel Glaser, Emma Greenberg, Emma Hamill, Zoëmiel Hnderson, Tatum Johnson, Adam Joss, Claire McCarthy, Simren Rai, Alejandra Wait, and Melina Waldman. This last group worked entirely online. I thank them all for their persistence and dedication.
